

Nixon, Jack in 2nd Verbal Fight

Political Debate Set for Friday Viewing

BY JOHN BARRY
Press TV Editor

The second in a series of four political debates between Dick Nixon and Jack Kennedy will be aired Friday at 7:30 a.m. over Channels 2, 4 and 7.

Although all four of the debates were scheduled in August, networks were more than pleased that almost half the nation was tuned in to the first broadcast viewed Monday, Sept. 26.

Audiences in Torrance and the South Bay area were impressed with the frankness and sincerity displayed by the political aspirants to the nation's highest office. Although nervous and at times appearing to be groping for the right words, Dick and Jack did an admirable job, in some instances better than the wittiest add-lib artist on TV.

Frank McGee, NBC news correspondent, will serve as moderator for the show that will originate from Cleveland. Four reporters will again fire questions at the Presidential hopefuls. As in the first debate the show will include opening speeches, retorts to questions answered, and summations.

Four radio networks will also carry the debate.

Singer's Hair Matches That of Pet Poodle

Pert pretty Julie Hand, vivacious young vocalist on "Dick Sinclair's Polka Parade," calls her hair shade "apricot, matching my pet poodle, Pom Pom." Entering show business at the ripe old age of 12, as a member of a vocal trio, Julie soon decided to go it alone as a soloist. Then followed numerous high school assemblies, club dates, and college musical show appearances, all helping to launch her on a promising career. In her choice of profession, she follows a family tradition. For many years, her mother and aunt appeared professionally on the stage and radio as "The Clark Sisters."
